

Licensor: UIA Talent Agency

Established in 2011, UIA Talent Agency is an entertainment enterprise with an industry-leading reputation of excellence in representing a multifaceted and diverse roster of artists, spanning classical singers for opera and concert, actors for stage and screen, directors, conductors, composers, librettists, and playwrights. In 2014, UIA expanded into the theatre, film, and television sectors, culminating in its rebranding as UIA Talent Agency in 2019. This pivotal transformation also saw the launch of a literary division, representing composers and librettists for opera as well as writers and producers across stage, screen, and television.

Recent mergers with ADA Artist Management and Center Stage Management further strengthened UIA's position, uniting top-tier music, literary, theatre, film and television representatives. These strategic alliances have elevated UIA Talent Agency into a premier, all-encompassing force in entertainment, offering cross-genre representation and unmatched opportunities for dynamic artists.

UIA's literary division is led by CEO Aaron Sanko and Vice President Shawn Marie Jeffery, and works with some of the most exciting authors writing for the stage today. Their collective bodies of work encompass plays, musicals, operas, symphonies, poetry, and an array of multi-disciplinary art forms.
